ABOUT THIS REPORT

Fit to Rent uses thorough investigative tools and numerous third party resources to verify its information. The outputs you see above provide the most comprehensive picture of tenant readiness available on the market today.

GLOSSARY OF TERMS

RENT MANDATE

A depiction of the collective readiness and general preferences for a self-selected group of tenants looking to rent one property together.

F2R SCORE

The F2R Score incorporates historical and predictive measures across five distinct dimensions to quantify individual conscientiousness and overall rental readiness. The score depicted in a rent mandate represents the composite scores of all the adult tenants living together in one property.

ABILITY TO PAY

The value of party's monthly financial capacity for rent using adopted industry standards based on total income and outstanding personal obligations.

RECOMMENDED RENT

Fit to Rent's personalized recommendation for safe and responsible renting practices to its beloved tenants. This figure is based on an in depth analysis of individual financial standing, existing debt obligations, and presumed long-term goals. It's our way of encouraging healthy renting and protecting our customers' long-term interests. But remember, it's just our recommendation.

MANDATE TYPE

A description for the group of tenants in search of a particular property. There are four types of mandates:

- Individual A single person looking for a property to rent by him/herself.
- Shared A group of individuals looking co-occupy a property as roommates.
- Joint A dual income couple renting as a family (with or without dependents).
- Head of Household A group predominately supported by one adult looking to rent as a family.

DEPOSIT POSTED

A cash allotment that a tenant or group of tenants has readied for transfer to a prospective landlord. The purpose for posting a deposit is to enable the tenant to demonstrate that they have the liquidity needed to act on a property of their choice.
